SAID HE WOULD DIE IN WRECK

Madam Grace, Clairvoyant Prophe-sied That Carl Hunt Would be Killed in Railway Disaster.

WAS VICTIM OF ACCIDENT

Fortune Teller Declared to Mrs. Blaine Hunt That Brother-in-Law Would Meet His Death.

That it was foreordained that Carl Hunt, the motorman of North Jackson street, who was almost instantly killed in the I. & C. traction disaster yesterday when the eastbound freight train number 151 crashed into and telescoped the west-bound passenger train number 6 near Osage, a short distance west of Connersville, should die in a wreck seems evident in the light of a story which was told to Mrs. Blaine Hunt of West First street, wife of a brother of the victim, by a fortune teller a few months ago. The only difference between the story and the actual accident is that the time is not exactly the same. There is a striking coincidence in the fact that the fortune teller predicted that Mrs. Hunt's brother-in-law would be killed in a wreck.

Mrs. Hunt visited Madam Grace, who was staying at the Ross boarding house, to have her fortune told. The woman who claimed that she could see into the future and describe the incidents that were to take place, told her client many things about her life and her immediate relatives. Mrs. Hunt went primarily to learn something about her husband's business career and was apprised of the facts and the manner in which her husband should proceed. When she learned what she sought, the fortune teller continued to tell her more about her life. She described many of her relatives, giving a perfect description of their appearance.

Among the number of relatives of whom she spoke, was Carl Hunt, the victim of the traction accident yesterday. She described minutely a man, whom she said was a brother-in-law of Mrs. Hunt. The clairvoyant named some of his peculiarities and pointed out all of the minute details of his manner of dress, complexion, form and many other things, so that there could be no question, but that she meant Carl Hunt. She also mentioned that he was the only support for his widowed mother and that he was the last child in the family who had not been married.

Madam Grace declared that Mrs. Hunt's brother-in-law was a "rail-reader" and that he would sooner or later meet his death while performing his duties. She stated that he would probably be killed in a wreck in the following month of March. Her prophecy has come true only not at the exact time which she mentioned. Mrs. Hunt says that she told her husband of the peculiar prediction, when he arrived home that evening. He thought enough of it to tell his brother, who laughed at him at the time. A few days later the motorman came back to his brother and said that the prophecy had been worrying him considerably, as he had been thinking about it. Blaine Hunt told him not to think of it and the incident ended there.

WERE MARRIED.

New Castle Courier: John D. Shaeffer of Knightstown and Miss Ruth Burk, daughter of Harry Burk and wife, were granted a license to marry Tuesday. The groom's mother gave her consent to the marriage in a written statement, her son being only nineteen years of age. The license was issued on his birthday anniversary.

MISTAKE IN REVISION

Horse Show Committee Omits Two Classes in New Lists.

In revising the new premium lists for the coming horse show, which will be held Thursday and Friday of next week, the committee omitted two classes which they desired to place in the new lists. One of the classes will be number 40½, best mare, one and under two years, first premium of six dollars, and second premium of three dollars. The other class is number 42½, best gelding one and under two years, first premium six dollars, and second premium, three dollars.

PLAY GREENFIELD, EXPECT HARD GAME

Local High School in First Game of Season is Confident of Victory.

OPPONENTS APPEAR STRONG

The local high school football team will play Greenfield Saturday in Greenfield. The strength of the Greenfield team is not known, but they have won and lost one game this year. This will be the local "bunch's" first game of the season and they are prepared to give Greenfield a tough game. They will line up as follows: Watson, center; McMahon, left guard; Kennedy, left tackle; Pearce or Williams, left end; Braun, right guard; Benedict, right tackle; Griffins, right end; Bebout, quarter; Petry, left half; Carroll, right half; Wallace (Capt.) full; Guffin, sub.

SURPRISE FRIENDS WITH MARRIAGE

Roy Coe and Mrs. Lena Whitton Are Secretly Wedded and Leave For the West.

WAS TRACTION CONDUCTOR

Roy Coe and Mrs. Lena Whitton, nee Neff, surprised their friends in this city yesterday by quietly getting married and leaving for the West. Mr. Coe went to Indianapolis at noon and Mrs. Whitton followed at two o'clock. Not very much is known here about the wedding, but it is generally supposed that they were married in Connersville. Mrs. Henry Neff of East Third street, mother of the bride, knew nothing of their plans and was told only when they were ready to leave. The couple was well known in this city. Mr. Coe was formerly a conductor on the traction line. They will make their home at Riverside, California.

WHOLE FAMILY STRICKEN

Four Children in Spiceland Home Have Typhoid Fever.

The fourth case of typhoid fever developed yesterday in the family of Richard Wilson at Spiceland. A daughter, Ruth, aged eight years, succumbed to the disease and was buried yesterday. The three children who are now suffering are in a critical condition, but are reported to be slightly improved.

TRAIN RUNS INTO AN OPEN SWITCH

Pennsylvania Flyer is Ditched Near Cleveland on the Rush-Hancock County Line.

FIREMAN LOSES HIS LIFE

Four Other Members of the Crew are Injured—Train a Mass of Wreckage.

One man was killed and four men on the train crew were injured when the west-bound fast mail on the Pennsylvania railroad known as No. 18 and running between New York and St. Louis, was piled up in ruins at 4:30 this morning. The train, running at great speed, dashed into an open switch at a little station called the C. U. cabin, near Cleveland on the Rush-Hancock county line about three miles northwest of Carthage.

Pickering, fireman, of Columbus, O., was killed and four other members of the crew were injured:

William Gindey, engineer, Columbus, O.

Dan Mullin, baggage master, Columbus, O., who had his hand mashed.

C. K. Knavil, express messenger, Columbus, O., back sprained.

None of the passengers were injured except one woman, who was resting with her head on a window ledge and received a slight bruise. She refused to divulge her name.

Pickering, the fireman, was in the act of shoveling coal, his gloved hand resting on the tender. His body was held in this position for four hours until the wreckage could be raised and the man released. He was married and has one child.

William Gindey, engineer, was thrown through the cab window, and was found lying unconscious in a fence corner at the side of the track. His injuries are not thought to be dangerous. He was taken to Greenfield by the company's surgeon, Dr. Charles Bruner, who was the first physician to reach the scene of the wreck. Gindey will be sent to his home at once.

Dan Mullin, baggagemaster, was making out his reports when the accident occurred. He is one of the oldest men on the road and had been in numerous wrecks, and says that his first thought was that it was a collision.

C. K. Knavil has a badly sprained back.

None of the mail clerks was injured.

There was great destruction of property and traffic was blocked for eight hours. That the fatalities were not more is remarkable. The mail train was twelve minutes late and was endeavoring to make up time. It consisted of three express cars, two of them "deadheads" next to the engine, two mail cars, a combination car, one day coach and two sleepers. Two wooden cars next to the engine were ground to pieces and one steel car badly twisted. The advantage of steel cars in a wreck was exemplified, as they were but little damaged.

The engine, No. 8636, one of the new type six-wheelers, was buried in the ground at the side of the track, the two wrecked cars lying north and south and the remainder of the train forming a big area. None of the passenger cars left the track.

It is believed that a freight train left the switch open. The track is completely torn up for a distance of several hundred feet.

By the reconstruction of a municipal power and water supply dam that a flood destroyed in 1900 the city of Austin, Texas, will create a lake more than forty miles long and nearly a mile wide.

AWAIT ACTION OF CITY COUNCIL

Business Men Are Looking Forward to Time When Councilmen Will Make Proposition on Lights.

BUSY WITH BOILER QUESTION

Other Cities Have Taken up Idea and May Install Sidewalk Pedstals in Short Time.

There seems to be no doubt but that the new sidewalk decorative light question is the one thought in the minds of the majority of the business men of Rushville at the present time. They talk it on the streets, in their stores and they dream about it. They are anxiously awaiting the action of the council, upon whom largely depends the life or the death of the proposition.

The members of the city council, at a session recently, when the members of the Retail Merchant's Association presented their proposition, that the merchants would furnish the lights from the ground up, providing the city would install them, passed a motion unanimously to the effect that they would meet at a later date as a committee on the whole, discuss the problem and answer the petition of the business men. So far they have failed to act because they have been busily engrossed with the city's business. They have been endeavoring to let the contract for boilers for the city water and light plant, but so far have reached no decision. They plan to go carefully as the contract is a big one and they desire to save the city as much money as possible.

Business men use the superlative degree in extolling the benefits to be derived from the sidewalk pedestal lights. There seems to be no doubt but that they would greatly beautify the downtown district of Rushville to a great degree. They would give the business section of the city a metropolitan air, which can be gained in no other manner.

Aside from the numerous advantages named, they would provide light for the downtown districts better than any other system of lighting which has ever been used here.

It is the one improvement where Rushville would take the lead over all of the cities in this section of the State who so proudly boasts of their up-to-date methods and appearances. To sum it all up it would make for Rushville a place in the bright and up-to-date class of cities of the State. It would help Rushville in obtaining more improvements, as on top of one improvement, others come with apparent ease, when the beauties of the first one are fully realized.

The idea was first conceived, when Indianapolis installed the beautiful sidewalk lights. Casady & Cox and the O. P. C. H. installed a sidewalk light in front of their store and other business men were very much impressed with the improvement. It was not long before the agitation had gained sufficient force so that the business men's association took up the question and it was not long before they had raised sixteen hundred dollars to pay for the improvement.

Other cities have taken up the idea after Rushville has started the agitation and it is likely that not many months will pass before the lights will be found in all of the cities of this size in this section of the State. Connersville has taken kindly to the improvement and the progress which is being made there is described as follows in the Connersville Examiner:

Connersville is to have some of the famous pedestal electric street lights. The Light, Heat & Power company is arranging to put a number of lights around the Kahn corner.

Three stands will be erected, each bearing five of the lights. This is the latest system of street lights and is becoming very popular over the country. At Rushville the city is considering the matter of changing to this system from the old arc plan, and the business men of the city have raised $1650 with which to buy the equipment providing the city furnishes the electricity, the light plant there being owned by the city.

New Castle is also considering the matter of installing the system on the streets of that place in the business section.

The light company is bearing part of the expense of installing the three stands to be erected, the idea being to let Connersville people have a look at the new scheme.

ORANGE TOWNSHIP WOMAN SUCCUMBS

The Funeral Services of Mrs. Elizabeth Isley, 75 Years Old, Will be Held Sunday.

DIED YESTERDAY OF CANCER

Mrs. Elizabeth Isley died at her home in Orange township yesterday. Death was caused by cancer of the stomach from which disease she had been a sufferer for many months. Mrs. Isley was a highly respected woman and was a member of the United Brethren church of St. Paul. She was seventy-five years of age and had resided in Orange township practically all of her life. She is survived by six children, their names being as follows: Lewis, Samuel, Mrs. Sarah Cartmel, Mrs. Emma Prill, Mrs. Mahala McHarcorem and Mrs. Lillie McCloud.

The funeral obsequies will be held at the Vienna church at eleven o'clock Sunday morning. The cortege will leave the house at ten o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Swartz of St. Paul, assisted by the Rev. James L. Brown, will officiate at the funeral services. Interment will take place in the Vienna cemetery.

SAY CONDITIONS ARE SATISFACTORY

Henry County Grand Jury Reports That Spiceland Home is Operated by Competent People.

PARTLY MAINTAINED BY RUSH

The grand jury went to Spiceland Thursday morning and inspected the joint orphans' home maintained by Henry and Rush counties, under the efficient supervision of Mrs. Ella Bundy, a farmer Rushville woman, says the New Castle Courier. The jurors were well pleased with conditions found at the orphanage and complimented Mrs. Bundy on her excellent management.

The jury earlier inspected the county infirmary and farm and complimented Mr. Hosier. The jury found that several recommendations of the April grand jury had been carried out, including a cell especially arranged for the care of insane people while they are there awaiting admission to the asylum. Sanitary conditions were also found to be first class.

PROBABLY HOLD FUNERAL SUNDAY

Arrangements For Burial of Carl Hunt, Traction Disaster Victim, Not Completed Yet.

WOULD HEAR FROM BROTHER

I. & C. Trainmen Express Much Regret at Sad Ending of Their Highly Respected Friend.

At a late hour this afternoon two o'clock Sunday afternoon was set for the time of the funeral of Carl Hunt. The Knights of Pythias and the Red Men will have charge of the services, which will be held at the residence in North Jackson street.

Although no definite arrangements have been made for the funeral of Carl Hunt, the I. & C. freight car motorman, who was killed when two trains collided at the first stop, one and one-half miles west of Connersville yesterday morning, it is likely that they will be conducted Sunday afternoon. The final fixing of the time has been deferred to learn whether or not all of the brothers and sisters of the victim can arrive in time for the obsequies.

All of the immediate relatives of Mr. Hunt have been reached with the exception of one of his brothers, Ray, who lives in Colorado. The exact place of his residence is just thirty-five miles from Denver, at a small town where no communication can be had with him only by mail. The nearest railway station is three miles from his home and it is said that it was impossible to even reach that place by telegraph yesterday. They expected to be able to get through to the station today and send a messenger on there to his home. They expected to receive some word from him today, but did not.

That young Hunt was probably the most popular employ on the I. & C. traction line there seems to be no doubt. The sad faces and drawn-up countenances of the other motormen and conductors on the line stand as mute evidence of his popularity. It is said that whenever any of the trainmen gathered yesterday, they invariably expressed regret at the loss of Hunt as a fellow workman. Many of the traction men shed tears whenever they gathered today and yesterday, over the sad ending of the motorman whom they held in such high esteem.

It has developed since the accident yesterday that two other Connersville men owe their lives to the fact that they barely missed the early morning passenger car out of Connersville yesterday morning which collided with the freight car. Dr. L. D. Dillman and T. C. McBurney of the eastern city planned to leave on the first car for Indianapolis so that they could get good positions for the big Roosevelt meeting there yesterday. It was by the merest chance that they missed the car. It will be remembered that two other Glenwood passengers, W. L. O'Kief and C. J. Murphy, both of Connersville, failed to catch the early morning train yesterday.

TIME TO BURN LEAVES.

The city ordinance provides that leaves shall be burned only between the hours of six in the morning and two in the afternoon. There seems to be a widely diversified opinion as to the time limit.

Germany now leads the world in the number of electric furnaces for smelting, refining and casting.

Lesson III.—Fourth Quarter, For Oct. 16, 1910.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xxv, 31-46. Memory Verses, 34-36—Golden Text, Matt. xxv, 40—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This lesson is found also only in Matthew. It is called in the ordinary lesson title "The Last Judgment." If it had been added "preceding the kingdom" the title would have been correct. There are at least three judgments in the future. Dr. Scofield sees five, one for Israel only and one for angels. See his note on Rev. xx, 12. The three we refer to are the judgment for believers only at the judgment seat of Christ (Rom. xiv, 10; II Cor. v, 10), the judgment of the living nations of today's lesson and the judgment of the ungodly at the great white throne a thousand years later than the judgment of nations (Rev. xx, 5, 6, 11-15). The judgment of our sins took place on Golgotha when Jesus suffered for sinners the just for the unjust, when He put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself, and He has assured us that for our sins we shall not come into judgment (I Pet. iii, 18; Heb. ix, 26; John v, 24, R. V.). See also Isa. xliii, 25. His redeemed ones, having received pounds and talents and having occupied, done business, witnessed for Him during this age, shall at the first resurrection, at the coming of Christ for His saints, somewhere in connection with the marriage of the Lamb, be rewarded for their service and have their places appointed in His kingdom. While this is taking place in the air or in heaven the great tribulation is on the earth, at the end of which, immediately after it, the Son of Man will come in power and glory (Matt. xxiv, 29-30), and this is the stage of His coming referred to in the first verse of today's lesson.

Unless we see ourselves as well as the holy angels coming with Him at this time we cannot understand this lesson. Take one of the simplest statements, "When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with Him in glory" (Col. iii, 4). Put with it I Thess. iii, 13, and Zech. xiv, 5, then ask yourself as a believer the question, When He shall come in His glory where will I be—with Him on His throne or before Him as sheep or goats? But Rev. iii, 21, with the texts already referred to, and how any simple minded believer can fail to see his place with Christ in this judgment I cannot understand. Let us then keep our place with Christ as we consider the sheep and goats. "Before Him shall be gathered all nations" (verse 2). Let the Spirit Himself tell us about it. What has He said elsewhere? "Behold, in those days and in that time when I bring again the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem, I will also gather all nations * * * and will plead with them there for my people and for my heritage Israel" (Joel iii, 1, 2). "For I will gather all nations against Jerusalem to battle; * * * then shall the Lord go forth and fight against those nations" (Zech. xiv, 1-5). Could it in any way be made more plain that this judgment will be the time of mercy for Israel and judgment upon her enemies, according to Isa. xxxiv, 8; xxxv, 4; lxiii, 4? Concerning this very time He says in Ezek. xxxiv, 17, "Behold, I judge between lambs and kids, between the rams and the he goats." From many places in Scripture it is very plain that as this age draws to a close Israel will occupy the land long ago given to Abraham, reaching from Egypt to the Euphrates (Gen. xv, 18). They will be recognized as a nation, perhaps under the patronage of Turkey, which is even now offering them Mesopotamia (if reports be true), and for a time it will seem as if their troubles were over, but their friend will break his covenant with them, nations will gather against them, and in their extremity their Messiah will appear in glory for their deliverance and to set up His kingdom. The nations which have been friendly to Israel shall share her glory, but judgment shall fall upon her enemies, even as it is written in Isa. lx, 12, "The nation and kingdom that will not serve thee shall perish." After this judgment of nations, at which time the evil trinity, having done their worst against the people of God, shall be disposed of, the beast and false prophet being cast into the lake of fire forever and the devil shut up in the pit for a thousand years, then shall a king reign in righteousness, and the work of righteousness shall be peace, and the service of righteousness quietness and assurance forever.

There are principles here, however, upon which God always acts in every judgment. That which is done to His people at any time He counts as done to Himself, whether it be good or ill. "He that toucheth you toucheth the apple of His eye." "Why persecutest thou me?" "A cup of cold water shall in no wise lose its reward" (Zech. ii, 8; Acts ix, 4; Matt. x, 40-42). As we read of those who ministered to Him when He was on earth, some think how gladly they would have done this, forgetting that it is our privilege at all times to minister to Him in the person of His people. The poor we have with us always, and whenever we will we may do them good. He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord.

Notice as to the future it will either be the kingdom or everlasting fire, eternal life or everlasting punishment (verses 34, 41, 46). The everlasting is as long in the one case as in the other.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic for the Week Beginning Oct. 16, 1910.

Topic.—Your amusements—do they build up or tear down?—Rom. xv, 1-3; Ps. xxxvi, 7-12. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The question of amusements is a very serious one, especially when it is applied to youth and young people. It is at these ages in our life when we find most pleasure—I mean physical pleasure—of one kind or another, and yet it is sad to say that it is at these very ages that great harm may be done and we least understand at the same time the dangers of these amusements. Our whole aim is to enjoy ourselves, to have a good time and never count the cost. Life is made up largely of amusements and work, and therefore God, even at what seems to be the most dangerous time, wants to get our amusement proclivities out of our system, so that when we have to settle down to business and the serious part of life it should be gone and not interfere with our work.

If, again, youth makes errors, even serious ones, they may be lived down on the plea of youth and lack of experience, but if a full grown man commits a serious wrong little mercy is shown to him upon the basis that "he was old enough to know better." But amusements do not altogether cease with age. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." The same is true of men and women.

Amusement being such a constant factor in life from childhood to old age, it is well to consider "our amusements," not somebody else's, and what effect they have upon us. If they build up we should rejoice and continue in them, remembering, however, that even innocent amusements, if abused, may become harmful. Who would call croquet anything but an innocent game? And yet who has played it frequently without knowing that it is one of the easiest of games to arouse the temper, to lead to deceit and fraud? Hence if one cannot play croquet without these results he should give it up, for to him it is a debasing and harmful game. But to-day how many innocent games there are for the young! There are all kinds of athletic sports, indoors and out.

Local Churches Sunday School Lesson Christian Endeavor

countless games that can be played in the evening in the home, and thus do away with cards, for instance. I am no crank against cards and theaters. I never preached a tirade against them, and yet I help young people against them as much as possible. It takes not a moment to see that clubs of women for playing "bridge" are wrong.

Hearts are broken in the loss of the prizes; envy and jealousy are aroused. Moreover, the giving of handsome prizes is gambling. When it has been tested in the courts it has been in some cases so decided. I am opposed to boys playing cards, and the mother who plays and sets him the example or even teaches him to play may live to rue the day when she ever saw a card. Cards, no matter what may be said, are gamblers' greatest tools. And who knows what the boy of tender years at home may pass through in a lifetime? If he does not know how to play he cannot be tempted, but if he does and is lonesome and weary in a strange city he is likely to be spotted and perhaps led into a gamblers' hell, for no fire burns worse than that which possesses the gambler. As to dancing and theater going, people must decide largely for themselves. But as a general proposition it is as well to avoid them.

Nor are these things all. Others are worse. Some may be elevated by music at the opera and the production of the great dramas and tragedies of literature. But even Shakespeare is vile and foul in the language which he sometimes uses. But these are the least of the programs. Where a few see "Julius Caesar" or "Faust" or hear the great operas the thousands see a very different cast upon the stage, and if men of intelligence would tell the plain, unvarnished truth they would say at least that the average theater tears down the average character and does not build it up. It debases and corrupts, and if it does these things it is wrong for those who are thus affected and for those who are not, for the strong should help the weak, and if weak and strong would stay away theater going would stop and theaters would be closed by the empty seats.

Then there are amusements which are positively sinful—intemperance, impurity and all things which are directly forbidden by the word of God.

But how may we know when an amusement is wrong? Young people say, "They don't hurt me," and that settles it for them. "A glass of wine, a cigarette—I feel no effects," they say. The present moment is not the time to judge. Some one has said, "You pay for wet feet twenty years afterward," and there may be some truth in it. To discover whether an amusement uplifts or debases look twenty-five years ahead. See boys who were never hurt by cigarettes when they were boys. What are they if they continue the habit and it increases, which it does as the years go by? Wrecks, the vast majority of them. So it is with all other vicious amusements. You are young now, strong, possess a healthy nervous system, but keep on and sooner or later the fearful results will come. Now is the easiest time to give them up. By the grace of God do it and find your pleasure in spiritual joy and in the things that do uplift—religion, music, art, good books and good companions.

Called to Rest.

The death angel called at the home of Michael F. Shank on Friday evening about six o'clock and closed the loving and useful life of his beloved companion, taking her from this world of toil, pain and cares to her reward in the kingdom of God, where all is sunshine and gladness forever. "Weep not that her toils are over. Weep not that her victory is won. God grant that we may rest calmly when our work, like her's, is done."

Her death was due to heart failure. Although she had been feeble for some time, neither she nor her loved ones realized that death was so near until about six hours before she died.

Mrs. Louisa Ann Russell Shank was the daughter of Niram and Lorinda Russell and was born February 13, 1850, and died September 30, 1910, being 60 years, 7 months and 17 days old at her death. She became a member of the Christian church at Flatrock while young and later in life moved her membership to the Plum Creek Christian church on December 30, 1875. She was joined in marriage to Michael F. Shank, and to this union were born four children. They were, Louise Pearl, Dora May, Hallie Courtland and Allie Leotia. Of these just one survives. Besides her devoted husband she leaves to mourn her loss one daughter, Pearl, and one granddaughter, Ruth, and relatives and many friends. C. H.

Indeed thoughtful Republicans believe that anything less would be creditable to the patriotism, intelligence and true manliness of the Republicanism of this historic district.

Any other result would jeopardize the maintenance of Republican principles and policies, would strike down the great heart purpose of President Taft in fully carrying out the sacred pledges of our party.

Any other result would cloud the future history of the Sixth district in her political interests with doubt and fear, and jeopardize the cherished hopes of noble men on whom our party depends for further service.

Any other result would bring disappointment to this district—the birth-place of Morton, and a section whose citizenship is equal in patriotism and character of any other part of our great State.

Any other result might jeopardize the election of a Republican Legislature and the return to the Senate of that progressive leader and aggressive champion of all righteous measures for the people's welfare—Albert J. Beveridge.

We repeat, therefore, what we have said before in these columns, that the Republicans of this district must, for their country's welfare and for their own credit and benefit, triumphantly re-elect Judge Barnard as our Congressman; and let us do so because he is worthy, and because he will stand true to every just measure and for re-election of Edward D. Crumpacker as next Speaker of the House.

For the voters of the Sixth district to re-elect Judge Barnard means to honor themselves and insure their welfare.

Irrigation Process Has Advantage Over Dry Farming

Pecos Valley, in New Mexico, is Cited as an Instance Where Water Carried in Through Ditches Has Solved the Drouth Problem

Farming by irrigation is coming to be one of the five topics among farmers everywhere. It has been a vital question in the western States for many years, but now that there is some work being done in the way of experimenting with this method of farming in the eastern and central States, the farmers of Indiana are watching irrigation news everywhere.

That irrigation has many advantages over dry farming there can be no doubt. Likewise dry farming has its advantages over irrigation methods. The big advantage which the irrigation plan possesses is that you can make it "rain" whenever you wish to. The result of that is that there are no crop failures from droughts or "rainy spells" at the wrong time. Of course, irrigation is practically confined to the no-rain States so far, but it seems possible that experiments may find it useful even in the rainy countries to prevent damage from drouth. The advantage which dry farming has over the other plan is obvious—the water comes free while in the dry countries it means considerable expense sometimes to get the water for the land.

The cost of irrigation varies considerably as was shown at the recent irrigation congress which was held at Pueblo, Colorado. In Colorado ditch rights are worth $100 an acre on up to $150. In California from $150 up, and in Oregon the minimum is about $150. In many cases the cost is as high as $200 an acre. New Mexico and especially the Pecos Valley seems to have the great advantage in respect to cost of water. Their ditch rights are never worth more than $50 an acre, and in the artemisia belt which begins at Roswell, where the Rush county colony is located, and extends perhaps fifty miles down the valley, the water right is free after the expense of getting a flowing well is met. And that is the ideal method of irrigation farming. You are dependent on no one—you have your water and all you have to do is to open the valve and let it run.

The plan of irrigation is very simple after it is seen once. One requisite is that the land be fairly level—a great advantage which the Pecos Valley possesses over other sections of the dry country. Water will not flow up hill in the West any more than it will flow up hill in Rush county. Hence the idea is to get the well on the highest part of the land.

Radiating from the well are the lead ditches which carry the water to all parts of the farm. Then when the farmer desires to irrigate one field he places a dam in the lead ditch, and makes smaller trenches with a hoe or plow to carry the water where he wants it. There are different methods of irrigating different crops.

The alfalfa fields are flooded. As soon as the first crop is cut the water is "thrown" on the land and the field completely submerged. That sounds like a big job, but it really isn't. The field is divided into "lands" and borders are thrown up across the field about three rods apart. The water is turned into the first land until it is submerged. Then the dam is moved down the lead ditch to the next land and it is flooded, and so on until the whole field has been submerged. In this way the farmers of the Pecos Valley get as high as six crops of alfalfa a year, averaging as high as a ton and a half to the acre, and six tons per acre is a very common crop. When they are selling it in the field now for $13 a ton it may be seen what profit they are making.

But orchards are the big thing in irrigated lands and especially in the Pecos Valley. And an orchard is an easy thing to take care of—although they spend more time on them there than do in Rush county. First the irrigation of an orchard. The plan is much the same as in an alfalfa field. The space between the rows of trees is flooded—the trees being on the borders. During the first year of a tree's life, it is watered about once each month. After that about three times a year is regarded as often enough. With that much water young trees make a growth of from three to four feet a year, and a five year old orchard usually bears a fair crop of apples.

In Pecos Valley the farmers are making good use of the ground between the trees. In the first place—horticulturists say that orchards should be taken care of just like a crop as to cultivation. The ground should be plowed, the weeds kept down, etc. So the farmers there are putting in crops between the rows of young trees and consequently are getting big returns off their land even while the orchards are growing. Kaffir corn, Indiana corn and milo maize are the most common crops in young orchards although alfalfa is frequently used.

The question of farming in irrigated lands is in one particular a great deal like it is right here in Rush county. In the irrigated lands there are the poor farmers and the good farmers. There are the lazy farmers and the industrious farmers. One great fault with the no-rain-country farmers is that they expect the water to do it all. They think that by turning water on the land they are doing all that is required and that crops will grow without attention. There they make their mistake, although it is true that crops there do not require as much attention as here.

Here is an example which is frequently mentioned by Rush county people who have been and are in the Pecos Valley. An Illinois man bought 320 acres south of Roswell. He did not get his well completed until last March, and then he began cultivating the land. He now has about two hundred acres under cultivation and this first year will reap big returns off of his farm. He has an orchard that has made a remarkable growth. His well flows a river of water all the time and furnishes an abundance of water for 320 acres. Incidentally the farm as it now stands cost him about $17,000 and he has been offered $40,000—a fairly neat profit for one year's work in addition to the crops he will get.

On the other hand there are farmers there who can not make a success, just like there are farmers in Indiana that are not successful. It seems to be the same question the world over—the man who works gets the money.

There's a Big Difference in Shoes

Some Shoes are exceptionally stylish, but oh, how they hurt when you wear them. Others are so mighty comfortable that you'd like to wear them if they didn't look quite so ungainly and clumsy.

Then again some are not serviceable—you don't get your money's worth.

AMUSEMENTS

It may be of interest to many local theatergoers, who had planned to go to Cincinnati next week to see the great newspaper play, "The Fourth Estate," that the same thing may be seen in Indianapolis at Shubert's Music theater the week of November 14. It is likely that many Rushville people will defer their trip to Cincinnati and see the show in Indianapolis. "The Fourth Estate" is conceded to be the only real newspaper story that was ever staged. In one act four four-thousand linotype machines are used on the stage. They are all operated by union men as the union cities will not allow non-union men to work the machines.

The Kinley company entertainment given in the assembly room at the Arlington school building Wednesday night of this week was a decided success, both as to size of the audience and merit of the program rendered. The entertainment was under the auspices of the high school and afforded the general public the first opportunity of seeing the new school building in its interior completeness. The singing of Miss Ida Kinley was exceptionally fine, judging from the numerous encores received.

Mr. Shipley, who gets music out of many sorts of instruments made a decided hit with the audience and Miss Gladys Gifford as reader and impersonator, was simply irresistible. It was a rare entertainment and Arlington people hope that the high school teachers and pupils will make it possible to have many more such enjoyable occasions during the year.

The Star Grand offers two subjects tonight. The first is entitled "Over Mountain Passes." This picture was taken in South America, and shows scenes in the Andes of Peru, and is one of greatest scenic beauty and decided interest. The second subject is a drama entitled "The Footlights or the Farm." It shows a pretty daughter of a farmer, who became stage-struck and decided to go to New York to begin a career, and after reaching the great city, she has the usual experience of a great many young girls who start to climb the ladder of fame in the great metropolis. It is an entertaining story filled with pathos and a strong moral lesson. Earl Robertson will sing "Sugar Moon."

The Palace has a film for tonight entitled "The Tout's Remembrance." The story is that of a race track gambler who beats a poor country boy out of his money and then resolves to reform. He finds employment in a small country store and falls in love with his employer's daughter. He gets in bad with the rest of the people around the town and gets fired. The hero goes back to the city and picks up a tip on a race and wins $10,000 and goes back to marry the girl he loves. A new illustrated song will be sung.

LORD LOVELAND DISCOVERS AMERICA

"Do you?" she asked, her eyes liquid.

"Of course I do. I hope I shall be able to prove that before long."
"Well," she said warmly. "I mean to go on being good—better—best to you, for I'm studying out a plan to get your things away from the Waldorf-Astoria hotel and all the same to keep you out of trouble. You're a foreigner and don't understand our ways yet, but I'll see you through all right."

"How are you going to do that, my guardian angel?" Val smiled at the pretty girl.

Isidora had the sensation of being bathed in perfumed cream. His "guardian angel!" She had been called a number of nice things, such as a "real beaut," a high flier and a Floradora, but no one had ever hailed her as his guardian angel before, and with all her heart she vowed that she would live up to the name.

"I don't know exactly yet how I'll do it," she admitted. "But you leave it to me, and it'll be done, you'll see. Only give me an order signed 'Lord Loveland' to bring away anything of yours from the hotel. Meantime I've thought of one thing, which is you'd better not be seen here till we're sure they ain't on to you through that messenger boy. I tell you what, I've got a lady friend in this street, Mrs. Johnny Gernsbacher, who's looking after an empty house that's for rent."

"A caretaker?" asked Loveland.

"I guess that's right. Me and Mrs. Gernsbacher's good friends. She's a widow lady, quite old, most forty-five, so she'll do for a chaperon. You can see to things here for five minutes till I run across and ask if she'll let you stay there in the house, as a friend of mine, till you have time to look around."

"I—see to things?" echoed Loveland blankly.

"Yes. If anybody comes in they'll take you for a swell waiter in those clothes. They'll think Alexander the Great's starting in for uptown style."

She laughed with amusement at the joke, and Loveland laughed, too, though not very heartily. He was not enchanted at the idea of being mistaken for a "swell waiter."

Mrs. Gernsbacher must have been very accessible and easily persuaded, for in less than ten minutes the girl was back again, flushed with triumph. "It's all right," she announced. "Becky G.'s standing in the basement door, waiting for you to pop in. Bill, you show him the way to Becky's. Goodby, Mr. Gordon. Don't stay here another minute. I'll be over as soon as I can to tell you what's up, and I'll send Bill along at noon with something good for your dinner."

Nothing had happened when Bill Willing came at 12:30 to find Loveland an appropriately ornamental figure, keeping guard in Mrs. Gernsbacher's kitchen during that lady's absence on a shopping expedition; nothing had happened worth reporting, except that Alexander the Great was "around again."

Isidora had sent, wrapped in a Japanese paper napkin, a ham sandwich and a generous slice of pumpkin pie, a delicacy strange to the Englishman's palate. Bill had brought food for himself, and he had smuggled in his pocket a bottle of ginger ale for both.

"Have you read the beastly newspaper article about me?" Val forced him.

ONE WEAK SPOT

Most Rushville People Have a Weak Part and Too Often It's the Back.

Everyone has a weak spot. Too often it's a bad back. Twinges follow every sudden twist. Dull aching keeps up, day night. Tells you the kidneys need help—For backache is really kidney-ache.

Cure backache and urinary ills. Good proof in the following statement.

Mrs. Wallace K. Deem, N. Washington street, Knightstown, Ind., says: "I suffered intensely from constant, dull pains in my back and I could hardly attend to my housework. I felt languid and depressed and was annoyed by a distressing kidney weakness. When Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I procured a supply and their use relieved me. I have taken this remedy since then and it has always been of the greatest benefit."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

WHY HESITATE?

An Officer That Involves no Risk for Those Who Accept it.

We are so positive our remedy will completely relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish it free of all cost if it fails.

Constipation is caused by weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestines or descending colon. To expect a cure you must therefore tone up and strengthen those organs and restore them to healthier activity.

We want to try Rexall Orderlies on our guarantee. They are eaten like candy, and are particularly ideal for children. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They have a neutral action on the other organs or glands. They do not purge or cause any inconvenience whatever. They will positively overcome chronic or habitual constipation and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments. Try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. Two sizes, 10c. and 25c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store, Thos. W. Lytle.

self to inquire.

"No," answered Bill, "I ain't seen it. Miss Izzie offered me the paper, but I—well, I didn't care to read it. Seemed as if 't would sorter be spyin' on you behind your back."

"You're a good fellow," said Val.

"I don't see where the goodness comes in," protested Bill modestly. "But I can run back and sneak the paper if you've changed your mind and want a squint at it."

"No, thank you," said Val, though he half scorned himself for moral cowardice. "I've no wish to see how deep New York journalism has pushed me into the mud."

Rebecca Gernsbacher returned from her morning's shopping to ask almost as many questions as she drew breaths, freezing into a cold statue of suspicion

"BECCY G.'S WAITING FOR YOU TO POP IN," as her mysterious guest froze into reticence. Not having heard the name of Loveland, she did not associate any sensational headlines in the morning paper with Isidora's "swell mash," but there was no crime between pocket picking and murder of which she did not believe the handsome, sulky fugitive easily capable.

Loveland had begun to tell himself gloomily that it would soon be too late to draw money from any bank when Isidora appeared in great splendor at the basement door. She had on a large picture hat of red velvet, nodding with cheap ostrich plumes which shaded from palest pink to deepest magenta, and in her "electric seal" coat she looked as little like a lady as a beautiful girl could possibly look. But she was enchanted with herself and evidently expected to impress Loveland by her taste and elegance.

"Well," she panted, having kissed her friend Becky and dusted off a chair with the big muff which matched her cloak. "Well, I've got news for you, Mr. Gordon. Guess what it is."

In the first place, pa had been cross and hadn't wanted her to go out, but when she had teased he had only grumbled a little, and directly after dinner—before Bill came back—she had taken an "L" train downtown to consult the husband of a great friend of hers. This gentleman she had persuaded to leave business—he being a tobacco merchant—and to drop in at the Waldorf-Astoria, with the object of making certain inquiries. She had not, she said, confided any secrets to her friend, though she was sure she might have done so safely, but had merely pleaded a passionate yearning for further details of the "story" in the New York Light. What were the hotel people going to do? Were they searching for the Englishman, and, if so, had they got upon his track?

Mr. Rosenstein, being an occasional customer of the Waldorf bar when he "had on his gladdest rags," did not hesitate to undertake the mission. He went to the hotel and asked questions without arousing any suspicion that he was actuated by a deeper motive than idle curiosity, and he learned that the staff of the Waldorf-Astoria took but little interest in the gentleman calling himself Lord Loveland. The Englishman had gone away without paying for his rooms, as the newspapers had said, the hotel people admitted, but goods worth about the amount owing had been left behind. Anything that might have happened, anything of which the Englishman might be accused, did not concern the Waldorf-Astoria now that he was no longer a resident of the hotel, and employees had been instructed not to gossip either in his favor or disfavor. The late Lord Loveland was now shelved as a "back number."

And nobody had called or written! This lack of courtesy showed, to his mind, that Jim's and Betty's friends had all read the newspapers and had taken his affair with Milton in bad part. The man Milton was to blame for the scandal, which had doubtless been spread by Cadwallader Hunter's journalist friend in revenge for a snub. Cadwallader Hunter's malice, too, must have been another match to light the fire of mischief, and, taking everything together, Loveland began to fear that the game in America was up. He began to tell himself that the dignified course was to turn his back on America and march homeward with flags flying as if he had suffered no defeat. Yes; that was what he would do. It would be disgracing himself and his name to go down and wrestle in the arena with enemies who did not pretend to fight fair. Yet—to leave this country forever, with no hope of seeing Lesley Dearmer again! She had not even given him her address and had only laughed elusively when he suggested "calling on her some day after everything was comfortably settled." He knew no more than that she lived "near Louisville;" therefore he could not write to beg that she would not believe any hateful tales the newspapers might invent. Oh, yes, it was all over—that little episode, which had been so sweet, which had taught him that he had heart enough to love and long for a woman because of what she was, not because of what she had.

"You needn't look so broken up," said Isidora. "Wait till I come to the end of the story. I've got a messenger waiting in the street with something for you. I wouldn't let him in till we'd had our talk. Now I'm going to call him down to cheer you up a bit."

She bounced off her chair, ran to the door and shouted up from the level of the basement to the street. In another moment a uniformed youth walked in and deposited a large paper wrapped bundle, but it was not until he had been sent away that Isidora began to open the parcel.

"I wanted to get the lot," she said, "but, my, the bill was high—way above me. I'd $25 I'd been saving up—oh, for something, but you needn't care. I'd a heap rather do this than buy any old thing for myself. And here's what they give me after a lot of fuss."

She tore off the brown paper with a dramatic gesture and triumphantly displayed the suit of tweed clothing which Loveland had taken off the evening before in dressing for dinner. Then her face fell as she saw that his expressed no pleasure.

"I thought you'd like these better than anything, as I couldn't run to all," the girl went on disappointedly.

"You paid my hotel bill!" exclaimed Loveland.

"Only a little, weeny part," Isidora broke in. "Wish I could have done more."

REMARKABLE RECORD

Flesh-forming Food That Succeeds Nearly Every Time.

A man or woman might as well starve outright as to take food into the stomach and not have it assimilated, yet in Rushville as well as in every other town and city, there are many people who are thin, pale and seem underfed, simply because the food they eat is not assimilated, and fails to make good blood and firm flesh.

Samose, the wonderful flesh-forming food, taken before or after meals, mingles with the food, so that it is assimilated by the system and makes rich blood and pleasing plumpness.

Anyone who is thin, weak, scrawny and emaciated can put 50c. on deposit with Thos. W. Lytle and take home a box of Samose. If the treatment does not give a noticeable increase in good firm flesh and restore strength and health he will return the money without any question. Sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cts.

Don't Burn Up Your New Dress

Scores of women will do it this winter, in some poor, old base burner; and they'll get very little warmth out of it, too.

Don't you think it would be a good idea to buy a First Class Favorite Base Burner, with Triple Exposed Flues, and save enough on your coal bills this winter to buy a new dress in the spring? It is a positive fact—the Favorite does burn less coal and throws out more heat than any other base burner made.

It took an organized body of stove experts nearly fifty years to perfect it. There is no other Base Burner like it, because the features that make it such a wonderful and economical heater are patented. It is the most attractive and best made stove, too.

In the Triple exposed Flues you will find one reason why it will save fully one half on your coal bills. But there are many other reasons—too many to mention here. Come and see us, and we will show you that there is no other base burner that will compare with the Favorite.

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy.
This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c, and $1.00 a bottle, or sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York
City, upon receipt of price.

WILL LET WORLD KNOW THE FACTS

No Secret Made of the Raising Of The Maine.

TO SETTLE IT FOR ALL TIME

Colonel Bixby's Plan For Raising Battleship in Havana Harbor Is by the Coffer Dam Method, and Spain and Cuba Are Invited to Have Representatives Present When Mystery of the Deep Is Revealed.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 14.—President Taft intends to settle for all time if possible the question as to the cause of the destruction of the battleship in Havana harbor twelve years ago.
This is to be accomplished by the raising of the Maine by the coffer dam method. The plan as adopted by the board of army engineers appointed to consider the removal of the wreck has been submitted to the president by Colonel W. H. Bixby, chief of engineers, U. S. A., and was endorsed by Mr. Taft. Colonel Bixby expects to have the wreck uncovered and free for inspection by Feb. 15 next, the thirteenth anniversary of the destruction of the vessel.

The impartial spirit in which the work of determining the character of the explosion is to be undertaken is indicated by the fact that Spain has asked, at the direction of the president, to have a representative present during the entire process of work. The same courtesy has been extended to Cuba, and it is practically certain that both governments will accept. President Taft considers the settlement of the question of the explosion as of supreme importance in the raising of the wreck, and has directed that everything else be subordinated to it.

The president obviously intends that this government shall once and for all free itself of the charge that it has feared to have the Maine raised because of the possible adverse showing on the finding of the old court of inquiry. This court, appointed soon after the destruction of the ship, gave it as their opinion, after examining the wreck with the aid of divers, that it had gone down as the result of an external explosion. Spain also had the wreck examined, and its representatives declared emphatically that the Maine had met its end through an internal explosion. Since then Spaniards and some Cubans have not hesi-tated to charge that the inaction of the United States in regard to the wreck was due to a fear of the results. Even among some United States army and navy men there has been a disposition unofficially to question the accuracy of the findings of the old court of inquiry, which based its decisions on external explosion chiefly on the fact that one of the keel plates was driven through the upper deck.

CUSTOMS FRAUD

Is Alleged Against Firm of Art Dealers
in New York.

New York, Oct. 14.—The art gallery of Duveen Bros., art dealers, of 302
Fifth avenue, was seized by Edwin R.
Norwood, acting deputy surveyor of the port, who arrested Benjamin J.
Duveen and seized the firm's papers, office books and art objects, on a warrant charging conspiracy to defraud
the United States of customs duties.

The warrant did not state the exact amount of money involved in the alleged fraudulent importations, but the federal authorities said that papers seized in Duveen Bros.' office indicate that evasions of the customs duties on objects imported for the firm itself and for their clients were carried on systematically for many years previous to the tariff schedule of two years ago, admitting pictures more than twenty years old into the country free of duty.
It is also said by the authorities that the undervaluations will total more than $1,000,000. Duveen was later released on $15,000 bail.

Charged With Fraud.

Boston, Oct. 14.—Federal officers raided the offices of the Redeemable Investment company, seized the books, papers and all the cash in sight and arrested Charles H. Brooks, manager and a director of the company, upon a warrant which charges the company with using the mails to defraud.

Serious Accident Befalls "Frisco Train
on Bridge in Oklahoma.

St. Louis, Oct. 14.—"Frisco train known as the Cannonball was wrecked between Tahmina and Compton, Okla., on a bridge seventy-five feet long.
Forty-two passengers were more or less seriously injured, according to a report received at the office of the Frisco's manager here. The injured were taken to Fort Smith by a train which arrived at the scene of the accident soon after the wreck. According to messengers the wreck was caused by the tender jumping the track, which caused a derailment of the chair car, which crashed through the ties.

Thomas H. Watkins, coal operator of Scranton, Pa., has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities $1,275, 549 and nominal assets $518,361, all of which except $1,494 are pledged.

BREAKS WORLD'S RECORD

Aileen Wilson Wins in Race Against Time.

Aileen Wilson, the famous little black mare from Rush county, added another victory, yesterday, at Lexington, to her already long list of winnings by breaking the world's record for pacing mares driven to a wagon. The time for the mile was 2:04½. The record was formerly held by Edith W, an Indiana mare, who made the distance in 2:05½.

DRIVES GOAT TEAM THROUGH COUNTRY

Leslie Bogart Attracts Much Attention in Down-Town Streets Today.

ON HIS WAY TO HOME IN OHIO

A team of goats hitched to a small covered wagon and driven by a small crippled boy attracted much attention on the down-town streets today. Leslie Bogart, the driver of this queer team, met with an accident which cost him both limbs. He is on his way to his home in Ohio, and had come from Louisville. The little fellow travels only at night and rests his goats during the day. From here he expected to go to New Castle. He spent the day in Jersey City, where he rested his goats for the night's journey.

SUFFERS FOR HIS KIND ACTS

John Knecht's Story of Encounter Plays Him up in Role of Good Samaritan.

HIT IN LIP FOR HIS PAINS

Took up Heifer, Belonging to Benton Scott, Which Had Escaped and Quarrel Results.

Because John Knecht of Washington township, until a few months ago one of the proprietors of the Auto Inn in the Poundstone building, played the part of a good Samaritan, he is suffering with a badly swollen upper lip as the result of being biffed in the near vicinity of the nose with a brick bat. At least that is Knecht's version of the little trouble which he had with Benton Scott, a neighbor, last night about six o'clock.

Shortly after the altercation, Knecht came to this city in search of the sheriff to arrest Scott for the alleged blow which caused the slight facial disfigurement. He finally found Clara Bebout, but the official would not make the arrest without an affidavit. A search was made for the deputy prosecutor, Wallace Morgan, but it was later learned that he was out of the city. It was with some difficulty that the sheriff explained to Knecht that he could not make the arrest without an affidavit since he did not see the alleged attack.

Knecht's story places him in the role of the man who attempted to do a kind act for his neighbor. He says that Scott's heifer broke out of a field on his farm and was running wild on the road, when he found her. He took her up and held her until Scott called for his property. It seems, according to Knecht's remembrance of the incidents, that a quarrel resulted and Scott struck him with a brick bat. The former auto man did not divulge the reason for the quarrel.

At a late hour this afternoon an attempt was being made to file an affidavit against Scott. The deputy prosecutor has not returned and it was said that the affidavit might be filed before a squire or some other official this evening.

Swindler Works an Old Relegated-to-the-Rear Gag on Storekeeper at Greenwood.

GOES OUT FOR THE CHANGE

The Franklin Star has a write-up of a smooth swindler who has just worked the old change racket at Greenwood and Franklin. He is described as being about twenty-two years old, smooth face, tall, slim and wore a dark suit.

At Greenwood he went to a bakery and stated he wanted a $10 bill for silver as he desired to send the money away, but when he counted out the silver he said somebody had short-changed him and by a slight of hand pretended to put the ten dollar bill in a letter on which he had placed a stamp and said he would leave the letter with the lady until his return with the full amount of change, but after he had gone sometime the letter was opened but the $10 was not in it. He did the same trick with a lady in a store at Franklin, and left $20 to the good.

A Car of Sixteen Jobs

These are the greatest finished jobs ever received in the city. They are finished like a Palace Car. The finish is like that on Col. Roosevelt's Touring Car. It has curtains at the Windows and a rail for your shawls. Nothing like it ever made before in the United States.

I will say this is the best I ever looked at and I have been in the buggy business over 20 years. And this is no lie. If you will come and see this job you will say that I told you the truth for once.

If you are thinking of getting you a winter's buggy, for the Lord's sake don't pass this job if it does cost you a few dollars more.

This job is furnished as nice as any piece of furniture you have in your house. Plenty of room and the best goods that can be bought. Don't buy till you see this one.

FINLEY MOUNT SPEAKS TONIGHT

Republican Candidate For Attorney General Will Deliver Address at K. of P. Building.

AT SEVEN-THIRTY O'CLOCK

Finley P. Mount, an attorney from Crawfordsville and Republican candidate for attorney general, will deliver an address at the Knights of Pythias building tonight at seven-thirty o'clock. Mr. Mount has been making a very extensive campaign all over the State and press reports all confirm the statement that he is an orator of ability. He has taken a more active interest in the campaign than any other candidate for a State office. Mr. Mount has been traveling over the State in the private train with Senator Beveridge and has in many instances introduced the speaker. He traveled with Theodore Roosevelt in his swing across the State yesterday and introduced the speaker at his home town, Crawfordsville, yesterday, where a crowd of fifteen thousand people gathered on the Wabash College campus.

RUSH COUNTY HORSES WIN

Local Horseman Tae Prizes in the Morristown Annual Event.

Rush county horsemen were in evidence at the Morristown horse show as they have always been in other events where good horse flesh is being shown. Alonzo Dalrymple of near Carthage, won two second and two firsts in the draft class; Cass Johnson, living west of the city, took three first and two seconds in all classes; Dagler & Sons won three first and three seconds in all classes; and Earl Hinton of near Glenwood went away with two seconds.
